Weathering the Storm

By Phyllis Kimmel Libby

A major ice storm hit Oklahoma and my town, with wind chills down to sub 30 degrees in late October 2020. There was much damage in my neighborhood. I was left with no electricity, WIFI, telephone or computer -- essential tools for work I do. I also had other problem solving to do - like wearing five layers of clothes, using flashlights and candles, finding how to keep food fresh and cool.

I was weathering the storm.

I always know I have the love and protection of the ECK (Holy Spirit) flowing through me with love. I have my Inner Master, the Mahanta. I would be knowing this protection even more before the aftermath of this storm played out.

Outside in my yard I discovered lots of tree damage. I felt blessed that no limb damaged my house. I saw many broken branches just hanging by a thread on many trees. I love my trees as they keep my property shaded and my birds, squirrels, lizards and opossums fed and happy.

After the electricity was restored, James, my handyman, and I cleared some of my yard. James couldn't cut the broken limbs hanging up high. They had to remain to fall in their own time.

Two months later, I still had loose high limbs. As I stood under this canopy of trees, the wind blew through limbs barely attached that I hoped would fall away from the house if this was the day.

I sang HU as a non-directed prayer of love and surrender to the Holy Spirit.

“HU, this ancient name for God, is a love song to God. In singing it or holding it in your mind during times of need, it becomes a prayer of the highest sort.”

--Harold Klemp. The Sound of Soul, p. 35

I left then to take home-cooked food to James, who was not feeling well. The trip to James' was half a mile there and back. I was gone for less than five minutes - just five minutes.

When I came home I was stunned! An enormous pecan limb had fallen, missing my electric line, gutters, and roof, and not blocking my back door entry.

I clearly saw the protection of the Master and the ECK that I was not on that walkway during the five minutes when I could have been right in its path. I could have been lying there, killed or injured.

Tears of gratitude, awe and love fell. I had felt the power and love of the ECK earlier. This time it almost knocked me off my feet.

“Seek the highest and the rest of life will fall into place.”

---Harold Klemp. The Book of Parables, Vol. 3, p. 257

Yes, the highest gift of God, the ECK and Inner Master is love. This is very true and literal for me.
